HOUSE OF COMMONS PASSES THE BUDGET

Labor Member Explains Support Given Asquith Measure by His Party.

LONDON, May 6.—"There is no way under heaven to make the poor richer than by making somebody poorer," is how the laborite member of parliament, Mr. Snowden, explains the support given by his party to the Asquith measure which materially increases the taxation of the United Kingdom and which was passed by the house of commons, by a majority of 107, under the operation of the clock. When one member declared that capital would be driven out of the country by the operation of the new law, Premier Asquith demanded:

"Where will it fly to?"

Mr. Asquith further said that the cost of government throughout the world is increasing and nowhere would there be better opportunities for investment than in England. The debate on the budget in the house ended somewhat abruptly by the government moving the closure. The government majority was greatly reduced.

FORT APPOINTS SON.

TRENTON, May 6.—Governor Fort today announced the appointment of his son and secretary, Leslie R. Fort, to represent him at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, at Seattle, in June.

Young Mr. Fort declared that he would pay his own expenses on the trip and would be accompanied by his wife.

Sherlock Holmes would have trouble in solving some of the answers to problems presented in "The Hand of the Unknown," The Times' new serial that will start Saturday.
